says: "A small pimple of a strawberry color appeared on my cheek; it soon began to grow rapidly, notwithstanding all efforts to check it. My eye became terribly inflamed, and was so swellen that for quite n while I could not see. The doctors said I had Cancer of the most type, and after exhausting their efforts ithout doing me any good, they gave in the case as hopeless. When in-ormed that my father had died from the same disease, they said I must die, as hereditary Cancer was incurable. 'At this crisis, I was advised to try S.S.S., and in a short while the Cancer began to discharge and continued to do so for three months, then it began to heal. I continued the medicine a while longer until the Cancer disappeared entirely. This was several years ago and there has been no return of the disease."

DETAILS COMPLETE FOR HENLEY REGATTA

Yale Will Be Pitted in the First Bent for the Grand Challenge Cup with the Strongest Club on the Thames.

(Copyright, 1996, by the Associated Press.) HENLEY-ON-THE-THAMES, July 6 .-This little town and the clubs and residences on both banks of the river are flitting up rapidly and the last of the houseboats and steam lannches are taking up the positions allotted to them by the Thames officers. The fleet of pleasure craft already assembled shows that all records as far as attendance are likely to be broken. The river banks are divided up into sections and each craft is compelled to moor in the spot selected for it. It is only by the exercise of these precautions that the course can be kept clear. This year the number of houseboats and launches flying the stars and stripes and [the number of Americans who will be present will be far greater than last year, when Cornell unsuccessfully contested.

The crews entered for the Grand Chalshape, eleven inches high, thirteen inches in diameter and weighing about 200 ounces. The cup proper rests upon a stem of hull-rushes, surrounded by richly chased representations of waves, and the body of the cup is eleverated with water lilies and other equatic plants.

I pun the obverse side of the Grand Chat-cop is decorated with water tilles and other acquail plants.

Upon the obverse side of the Grand Challenge Cup is a reclining figure of Old Father Thames, holding in his hand an urn, from which is issuing water, indicating the source of the fiver.

The reverse side of the trophy is a shield, bearing the inscription; "Hency Regarta, Grand Challenge Cup, 186."

Finally, the handless are bullrushes, merging into a bearing of the reses and like leaves and around the body of the cup are inscribed the names of the crews that have been its temporary possessors, including Trinity college, Cambridge, 1861; Landow, 1862, Cambridge and 1852, two ford university, 1842; Effendant club, Oxford, 1844; Cambridge university, 1843; Thames Cub, 1843; Oxford university, 1844; Thames Cub, 1854; Cambridge university, 1854; Cheshire Rowing club, 1856; Trinity college, Cambridge, 1864; Cambridge university, 1855; Cheshire Rowing club, 1856; Trinity college, Cambridge, 1864; Cambridge university, 1855; Cheshire Rowing club, 1856; Endoon Rowing club, 1857; Chambridge, 1866 and 1867; London Rowing club, 1858; Stochan club, Oxford, 1856 and 1867; London Rowing club, 1875; London Rowing club, 1876; London Rowing club, 1877; Thames Rowing club, 1878; London Rowing club, 1878;

ADDED THIS YEAR.

Large Frowd Out the First Night of the Six-Day Bicycle Race.

IS GOING TO BE A VERY HOT CHASE

Lenders Cover Almost Forty-Three Miles Metall Wins the Special Prize for First Man Over the Tape.

According to prediction, the greatest sixday bicycle race that has ever been run at the Charles Street park began last night before a crowd of 2,500 enthusiastic spectators. The field is not only a large but a good one, and some remarkable fast going is forthcoming before the end of the long journey is reached next Saturday night, On account of severe inturies received at the state meet at Lincoln on the Fourth, Will Pixley, one of the speedlest of all the local racers, did not start. McCall, too, was contused and bruised from head to heels, as was Becker, the Minneapolis wonder, but they went in, in spite of medical advice to the contrary, and both rode magnificently. In Becker Manager Mardis has certainly secured a great card, and if he doesn't win The crews entered for the Grand Challenge cup are in the main so evenly matched that there is little to choose between them.

The first event tomorrow will be the heat for the diamond sculls between F. Heddington of the Thames Rowing club and R. K. Beaumont of Burton-on-Trent. It will take place at about 11:30 a. m.

ADDED THIS YEAR.

This year the Henley Regatta stewards buy added to the beauty and value of the Grand Challenge Cup, by placing it on a base of silver and clony. The base was designed by H. T. Steward, a well known architect of London is ortagenal in shape, eighteen inches high and sixteen inches at its base. Within its eight chaste and rich be does when following a slow pace. When the diamond sculls will be rowed and the next six crews who have successfully competed.

half to two and one-half lengths which she would have had in drawing the Bucks, if the usual strong wind blew from off that shore of that side of the river.

The members of the Yale crew are all in excellent condition and confident of victory. They were out at 11 o'clock this morning and paddled to Fawley court. There they started to do the minute barrier, but were prevented on account of the swarm of row-beats on the river, and had to content themselves with practicing starts. They got away better than at any time since their arrival here and the boat showed more life. The stroke was about forty to the minute. At the last trial Captain Treadway's stretcher broke and the crew had to go in.

The rigging of the Yale boat still seems to be amiss, but if necessary alterations will be made during the day.

All the crews did light work during the morning, but Guy Nickalls went in for hard work. He first went out in a single scull shell, then took a turn with the Leander eight and was afterward out with their four our crew. First Trinity did half the distance from the sland in 3:35 and with a thirty-eight to over the same course in 3:37%. New Col-lege went to the island and practiced starts. Leander did the same. The French crew nrrived today. The Yale men lent them their old boat pending the arrival of their own.

The French oarsmen were greatly pleased at this courtesy.

CARELESSNESS.

Probably half the people who see this article suffer from piles. It is one of the commonest diseases and one of the most obstinate. People have it for years, and just because it is not immediately fatal they neglect it. Carelessness causes no end or suffering. Carelessness about so simple a thing as piles has often caused death. Hemorrhages occur from no apparent cause and loss of blood causes death. Hemor-rhages occur during surgical treatment, often causing death. Piles are simple in the beginning and easily cured. They can be cured even in the worst stages, without pain or loss of blood, quickly, surely and completely. There a only one remedy that will do it-Pyramid It allays the inflammation immediately, heals the irritated surface and with con-tinued treatment reduces the swelling and puts the membranes in good, sound, healthy condition. The start is made just below Temple Island on the Bucks (Buckinghamshire) side of the river, and is, practically, a straight course from start to finish, the bends of the river being very slight and not of a nature to bother any competent coxswain. The races are rowed with the stream, which runs at the rate of about three miles on hour.

used to plainly mark out the course on both sides of the river and white flags upon the piles at each quarter-mile mark these distances.

The width of the course, between the piles, is 120 feet.

The grand stand at the finish only holds about 509 people, but it is comfortable attractive, admirably situated and is enclosed by an iron railing. It has a lawn, upon which a military band plays and a convenient refreshment tent. The name of the winning crew and that of the winning oarsman are displayed at the end of each race on the umptre's launch, on the telegraph at the winner's float and at the grand stand.

There is one udge and two umpires; all of them are, as a rule, veteran Oxford or Cambridge oarsmen, who have won fame on the Thames in former years and whose decisions and orders are entitled to the greatest respect and obedience.

The following are the events decided yearly at the Royal Henley regatta to give the meeting its full title:

eross the tape at the finish was conducive of one of the prettiest pieces of riding ever seen at the park. The people were enthused to the frantic pitch, and as the eight riders shot like so many birds on the wing about the dizzy circuit, they sood up in their chairs and shouted and screamed themselves marse. By a beautiful jump-away on the and Holton by three or four open lengths, but on the last lap and in the stretch home both McColl and the Kid overhauled him and down to the tape they came like rockets from the sky. The spectators were wild in their excitement. It was impossible to tell which rider was in the lead, did they advance. Some called "Backer," others "McCall" and still others "Micratein," but the mahogany-topped boy was the win-ner. By a bit of superhuman pedaling in and over the mark, he beat his two doughty
